Herstofore the Democracy have, to say the least, made a profession of boldness in pretending out to ignore, in their pletform, any nequestion of Southern right. They have professed to plamb the main in words, whatever might be the actions which followed. It is doing, they have, however, always left room, in diplomatic style, for a doable construction of whatever they promulgated upon the subject. It has been this nominal adherence to profess. It is not principles which so endeared the party to its southern supporters, and built up that strong but work of power upon which it has reliad so often end and of the first lime, by the press of circumstances, a strong and annerous body of the perty in the South of Ignoring difficult and dangerous questions elsewing the support of the first lime, by the policy in the South of Ignoring difficult and dangerous questions elsewing the support of the first lime, them the go-by, and ellowing the regest halteds of construction to natiquated plan-orm; in a word of setting their nets for birds of very feather. It this be done, the party has lock ren the little prestige of honesty, of which it has bested so long. The only feather, imaginery ven, in their cups will have been despoiled. Marshall:

Washington, July 6, 1848.

Dr. A. K. Marshall—Lear Sw: Yuar letter of the 24th ult, is before me form yon whether it is true that iff. Crittenden opposed the semination of Mr. Clay for the Presidenty by the late White Convention of Philadelphia.

That Mr. Crittenden did so oppose Mr. Clay is so motorions that I em suprised there should be envidences on that point which have fallen in my way, I have been (without solicitation on my part) shown a latter from a bighly respectable grultemen doubt about it anywhere. Among the muliphied evidences on that point which have falled in my wey, have been (without solicitation on my part) and the solicitation of the Union state that with the solicitation of my been, it is many of the solicitation of my part in antiva sountries.

Unagestionably mineteen-twentieths of the whole opposition of the Union share the views which the following the 2d of May, 1848, from which the following is entired and forcibly expresses. They are just siews.

The doctrine announced by the Administration, and approved or acquiesced in by the Democracy of the country generally, is false and feithlese beyond the country generally, is false and feithlese beyond the bemocracy in and disgree themselves.

The doctrine and is annunciators are equally treacherous. The Administration in announcing it, and the Democracy in endorsing it, dishonor the nation, and disgree themselves.

The doctrine and its annunciators are equally treacherous. The American people will not, cannot result in out of the contract of the pile. They, after all this, if he should be the somination of the Union the nation, and disgree themselves.

Rumors are afoat to the effect that there will knortly be a meeting of prominent Democrats of Louisiana, Miscissippi, Virginia, Alabama, Georgia, and South Carolina, to take coansed inpost the condition of the party, and to discuss the expediency of setting the Charleston Courention go by default. The party in the free States has become so thorough by Freescilled that they attery despair of slecting a sound Democrat in 1894, and regard a naison with the Southern Opposition and the conservative men of the North and West as the only means of defeating the Black Republicans in the Presidential content of the approaching year. It is said the movement only awaits the termination of the slections in Tennesce and Kentucky, and, should the Opposition carry these two States, of which there is now but listed doubt, it will immediately year, which is a spring sound. PASSENGER RAILWAYS .-- A letter, dated Philaolphia, July let, in speaking of the passonger rail ways of that city, says:

The construction of the passenger railways a fords facilities for visiting almost avery part of it eity, at a training cost, and the ears are much mo comfortable than the "old fashioned" omnibus. city, at a trifing cost, and the care are much more comfertable than the "old fashioned" comitions. The completion of those roads is rapidly increasing the grewth of the city, by running through districts which were until their construction almost uninhabited, thus affording an easy means of access to the buripees part of the city for many whn reside in the "country," or at least out of the burtle of business. The care have the several ctations every three and a half minutes, come of them passing up one etreet and down the adjoining one; a few of the lines, however, have downle tracks on the same street. The fare on any single routs is five centrates the system of exchange tickets, a person can, for eight, tem, or twaire, or fifteen counts, pass over two or three roads, and thus arrive at almost any desired point, athough perhaps several miles distant. I suppose the operage cost, on long routes, by the exchange system, is about one cent a mile. It is hoped ear own existens will soon have a trial of this mode of traveling. One important item should be observed—to secure a raif that will not obstruct the exchange contrains and wagon travel of the streets KIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The Hou. Daniel E. Siches has sent letters to his most intito ate friends informing them that he has essented his marital relations with his wife. The cutters were written yearded to day, and in consequence of the discovery that months ago he assumed the relations in the most intimate form.

The cory, for which we have excellent authority, is his:

silied forces were principally concentrated in the higher district, which opproaches the shore of the Garda Lake.

The Anstrian line seems to have advanced in ere-cent form, pushing forward its wings from Pozzolengo and Castle Goffredo with great energy and some success, and attempting to force forward their center along the slopes of the Naplanda towards the Castlelione. Here, however, they were met and defeated. Sufferino, heroically defended, was at last carried by the French troops. The Aastrians that carried by the French troops. The Aastrians had extended their line too far even for their immense force. Having lost this key to their whole position, the Aastrian center must have been focaed back to the village of Carinans four miles in the rear. They must again have been diglodged by the paraulag Franch and Sardinians, and again must have retreasted upon Volta, six miles still rarther in the rear. Volta is, we believe, an open town, and the Austrian center which mow eccupied it was ten.

Navigation of the Bad Biver of the North.

— Prix Trip of the Amon Northrup—Great Rejucing at saidiff incidence. We had the present of conversing verterlay with Mr. Jamas Rise, a merchant at Rue River estiment—aum afthy or sixty miles morth of Pembina, in the British possession—who was a passencer on the "Ann. Northrup," on ber return from Fort Garry week before leet. He says the trip down was emissently successful, and created gree excitement among the inhabitant, who had never seen a essambost before.

She start of from Brecklarding for Fort Garry on the 5th, and reached there on the 10th, these taking but four days. As it was the first irip, and as they had made no errangements for wood supplies along the way, they had to cut all the wood they required. Nor did they travel by algot, less through inexperience of the river they might endanger the beat. Both circumstances laing takes into account, we may ackely say that had they had a sufficiency of wood ready for ma by the way, and had they traveled by right as well as by day, they would have reached Red River settlement in thirty-six hours. This is sensettley new for the country through which the Red River fettlement in thirty-six hours. This is sensettley new for the country through which the Red River fettlement and population, and to develop the immense and terrific trace now only awaiting inhabitants to make them the finest agricultural regions in America.
